LAS CAMELIAS

Poultry quality and experience

Las Camelias covers the whole value chain, from production to sale.

GRANDPARENTS

Our Arbor Acres line grandparents are in isolated farms, located in San Luis. There, our breeding parents are born and sent to Entre Ríos, starting the productive stage.

BREEDERS

Our 30 breeding farms are placed in high biosecurity areas, and equipped with high technology in egg collection, feeding and air conditioning systems to obtain a high quality fertile egg.

OUR HATCHERIES

The collected fertile eggs from the reproductive farms and are taken to our hatching plants, where they are set in incubators. A software records, minute by minute, the environmental conditions

BREEDING

Chicks are taken from the hatching plant to breeding farms. They are comfortable areas with an easy access to food and water, where productive efficiency and animal welfare are pursued.

FEEDING

We manufacture our own balanced food for all our operations, transforming raw materials of vegetal origin, into specific diets for optimal chicken nutrition. We have a total capacity of 16000 tons.

SLAUGHTER

Our products are elaborated in our Processing Plant, with modern infrastructure and equipped with automatic eviscerating, cutting and filleting lines that allow maximum process efficiency

We focus on integration, maintaining a close relationship with the breeding families, as well as with our customers, pursuing the highest quality throughout the entire process.

Who we are

The origins of our company date back to 1936, when we started poultry breeding in an intensive way

Currently, Las Camelias S.A. is led by the members of the founding family's third generation. We are located in the heart of Argentine poultry farming, on the Uruguay River corridor of Entre Ríos province.

We develop our activity in an integrated way, ranging from genetics to commercialization; controlling all the productive stages. This allows us to certify the traceability of our products.
